Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 5/27/2005 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 12, 15-17 and 25-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Thome(5,800,486).

Claim 12 – lumens –64A and –64B- are intake lumens either of the lumens can be considered the first lumen. The first lumen is capable of slidably receiving a treatment element. Lumens –66A- and –66B- are exhaust lumens, both intake lumens are in fluid communication with both exhaust lumens through ports –90- and –92- in balloon –36-. Fluid flow is capable in both directions. Any of lumens –56-, -58-, -60- or –62- can be open to the distal and sized to receive a guidewire.

Claim 15 – the tip portion –38- is of different stiffness and flexibility than the proximal end of the catheter. The distal tip further has a non-circular cross section with respect to the axis of the catheter.

Claims 16 and 17 are product by process claims and because the structure of the prior art is the same as the product claimed the claims are anticipated.

Claims 25-27 – the second and third lumens are substantially crescent shape.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 13 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Thome et al(5,800,486) in view of Bradshaw et al(5,643,171).

Thome et al. teaches an apparatus as claimed but does not teach a liner in the forth lumen. Bradshaw et al. teaches a liner –28- to facilitate movement of a source wire in a lumen. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include a liner –28- in one of lumens –56-, -58-, -60-, or –62- to facilitate movement of the elements within the lumens as taught by Bradshaw et al. It is the examiner's position that Teflon is a polyimide.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 24 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
